Three more soldiers have died of pneumonia at Chickamauga.

Senor Polo y Bernabe, formerly minister to the United States, has been appointed under secretary in the foreign office at Madrid.

There is a hot contest between the Louisville Legion and an Iowa regiment for the honor (?) of being the last regiment mustered in under the first call for 125,000 volunteers.

Walter Forrester's friend, Bill Lyons, has been promised a commission in the commissary department at Washington. He got the promise without Gen. Forrester's endorsement.

The old game is to be repeated this year. Now that harvest is at hand, the price of wheat is to be forced down until the new crop is moved, and then put up again after it gets in the hands of the speculators.

The Gorman amendment proposing a tax of one-quarter of one per cent. on the gross receipts of corporations engaged in the refining of petroleum and sugar, has been agreed to and will catch the Standard Oil and Sugar trusts.

The gunboat Leyden has captured a small key near Cardenas and the American flag now floats from a Cuban lighthouse. The Spanish gunboats in the harbor have made no effort to recapture the key. They are busy filling the only unmined channel with obstructions.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, owned by Joseph Pulitzer, whose New York paper did not support Mr. Bryan, makes this comment:

"In view of the fact that over 6,000,000 American citizens thought William J. Bryan fit for the position of Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, President McKinley could well afford to take the risk of giving him a regiment."

Orders have been issued apportioning the territory in which the immune regiments are to be raised. Only four of the ten regiments will be colored. The Sixth and Eighth will be recruited from Kentucky and Tennessee, and part of the Seventh from Tennessee. Recruiting offices will be opened at Louisville, Knoxville and Memphis.

They had a high old time in the French Chamber of Deputies Wednesday. M. Deschanel was elected President of the Chamber over M. Brisson by a vote of 277 to 276, but there was such an uproar he refused to accept. Thursday another election was held and Deschanel was elected by 282 to 278 amid similar scenes of disorder.

The American Tract Society, of New York, in one of its April publications, printed an article on "Poor White Women" in the South, that caused the papers all over the South to denounce the article as false and libelous. The author of the article was Mrs. Houghton and the publication has made a complete retraction, saying the offensive article got in while the editor was sick. Following is an extract from it:

"It is surely time to recognize the needs of the poor whites in our Southern cities, and especially of the women among them.

"They are not an attractive nor hopeful class. Feeble of body and, as a general thing, weak of mind, sodden with snuff through the uncleanly habit of 'dipping,' utterly illiterate not only, but untrained to any useful employment, these women are entirely without that romantic charm which invests the girls and women of the mountains. "The city women are as dull, uninviting, thankless material as these are the reverse. But they have souls. They have eternal needs and eternal possibilities—eternal responsibilities, too, though these, it would seem, they must largely share with us Christians who neglect them.

"For the girls of our Southern cities there is at present only one industry—prostitution. They are too sluggish and dull-witted for factory work; they have not perseverance enough for household work or sewing. Among these women the Mormon propagandists find their easiest work; hundreds of them go to Utah every year."

TATE TURNED BACK.

A Volunteer Who Hid When the Landing Was Made.

Details of the First Expedition Sent to Cuba on the Florida.

Tampa, Fla., June 3.—The transport Florida, which left here over two weeks ago with one of the largest expeditions for the arming and reinforcement of the Cuban army ever sent out from Tampa, returned here last night. Confined on board with the grave charge of desertion against him is an American who enlisted in the Cuban volunteers who were sent on the Florida, but who, according to Capt. Silver, who piloted the expedition to its destination, at the last moment, when all the supplies had been landed and the volunteers were ready for their march into the interior, showed the white feather and ignominiously hid himself on board the transport.

The man's name is said to be Tate. He lives in Tampa and joined the volunteers some time before their departure. What action will be taken in his case has not yet been decided.

The main features of the Florida expedition have been published, but additional details were learned from Pilot Silver and from Capt. Dorst, who had charge of the expedition. Although Spanish soldiers were within three miles of the landing place and two Spanish gunboats were only five miles away, absolutely no trouble was experienced in landing the stores. The Spaniards undoubtedly knew that stores and volunteers were being put on shore, but they did not come near. There were no interruptions during the entire three days the Florida spent in the harbor. The transports was met by a crowd of perhaps 300 pacificos, old men and women, emaciated and almost naked, who had heard of her coming and who assisted with an eagerness that was almost pathetic in unloading the cargo of the Florida.

On the second day of the Florida's stay in the harbor a good-sized body of Cuban insurgents, in command of Gen. Rayo, appeared on the shore and the work of unloading was then pushed with the utmost vigor. The day previous the force under Gen. Rayo had an engagement lasting several hours with a large body of Spanish troops, which resulted in the defeat of the latter. The insurgents lost a dozen killed during the pursuit of the Spaniards. Word came that the steamer Florida was on the coast, and without stopping for rest or rations the insurgents took up the march to the sea, eighteen miles distant. No stop was made until the shore was reached, and although the insurgents for twenty-four hours had nothing to eat but a few bananas apiece, they went to work at once unloading the Florida's cargo. The cases containing the rifles were broken open, the contents distributed among the men and out on the pack mules for conveyance. So hungry were the insurgents that several cases of bacon were broken open by them and the contents eaten raw.

The State Election Commissioners will not hear anyone in person in recommending persons for appointment as county election commissioners, says the Frankfort Argus. All recommendations must be in writing and every recommendation will have consideration from the commissioners. They will have no certain named day to make county appointments, but they will have all the appointments complete for every county in the State previous to September 1, 1898.

It is estimated that the war will cost $600,000,000 if it continues one year.

Mr. M. S. Thompson, of Cadiz, was in town yesterday.

In Memory of Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. Morris who was born April 30th, 1809, died May 21, 1898, at the residence of her son P. P. Morris. She lingered with heart trouble and old age. She was a very admirable old lady and was respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She was a tender, indulgent mother; she was sincere in her friendship. She was a bright and useful member of society and a shining ornament to her sex.

Mrs. Morris leaves forty-one grand-children and thirty-three great-grand children.

She is gone! That hand so warm is now cold and lifeless as the clods of the valley. Her florid cheek has turned pale in death. Her eye so full of lustre has ceased to glance in softness on her four sons and one daughter, and is darkened forever.

Her heart which once beat so high with hopes of life and glory, has ceased to throb and her voice sounds no more. But she left the world in peace, and her friends in tears. She had a hope beyond the mortal shores. In her was evinced the excellency of the gospel of Methodism to the dying. In her it manifested its saving power; its peerless majesty and glory, its supreme conquest over death and hell, by living close to the cross.

It was this bright hope which elevated, sustained and cheered her languid spirit when the embers of mortal life were feebly glimmering in the socket of existence.

Wearied of life, they laid her down, With folded hands upon her breast, Her soul has put on wings of peace, And winged its flight to Heaven to rest.
